"This is the best sale I called all year," was the comment of auctioneer, J. L. Lindsay, on this fourth annual event of the Wasatch County Fair.

The committee in charge felt like the sale was an immense success. Every animal was sold. The prices paid for some of the finest animals ever seen by the committee members well paid the Junior stock raisers for their efforts. Some prices paid were almost double market listed prices.

Any Wasatch County taxpayer is eligible to sell animals at this auction according to the official rules.

County Commission Makes Final Courthouse Decision

Architectural Drawing Shows New Courthouse Location

The Wasatch County Commission issues the following statements to clarify any misunderstandings on the location of the new Wasatch County Courthouse which may have arisen through recent articles published by groups from outside the County.

THE PRESENT AND preceding Wasatch County Commissions discussed for several months with the Heber City Council the advisability of Heber City purchasing an alternate building site on Main St. on which to build a courthouse. This site would be given to Wasatch County in exchange for the present site and allow expansion of the Heber City park. Prices and appraisals were obtained on several tracts of land. On January 18th the Wasatch County Commission requested by letter a decision from Heber City on this matter so that construction on the new Courthouse could be started. Due to the prohibitive cost of a suitable alternate site in Heber City house would be ample to provide baseball facilities, picnic shelters, barbecue areas, and other recreational items for the people of our County. The present City Park is neither large enough or the correct location for this type of facility.

On January 18th the Wasatch County Commission requested by letter a decision from Heber City on this matter so that construction on the new Courthouse could be started. Due to the prohibitive cost of a suitable alternate site Heber City advised they were not interested in this proposition.

THE DECISION OF THE Wasatch County Commission was then to locate the new Courthouse on the existing site. In February 1967 a questionnaire was sent out to each Wasatch County taxpayer asking if they would support the Commission on this decision. Over 60% of the taxpayers responded with a three to one majority supporting this proposition.

Since that date this property has not been offered by the County for sale or trade to anyone and plans have been proceeding for the construction of our Courthouse on this site.

SINCE THAT TIME, EVEN though the property has not been available, many plans have been published by outside groups for the using of this property. The plans have been changed several times, some showing the Courthouse and Tabernacle, some showing the jail removed, some showing the jail standing, and some showing all buildings remaining. The object in each case has been to appeal to certain groups of individuals and to discredit the plans of the Wasatch County Commission and force a delay in building plans to accomplish the ultimate goal — the preservation of the Town Square with the County Courthouse.

TREE PLANTER—Crawler tractor is equipped with mechanical tree planter and was used on Uinta National Forest during current reseedling program on logged over areas.

Mechanical Planter in Use on Uinta Forest

"It's like riding the roller coaster at Lagoon", say tree planter Larry Ford of Heber City, when speaking of the mechanical tree planter used on the Uinta National Forest this spring for the first time. A crawler type tractor was used to pull the tree planter and the man riding the planter inserted the tree in the hole dug by the planter. A pair of wheels then seals the soil around the trees and completes the planting job. Larry Ford, Kendall Van Wagoner, Dick Circuit, all of Heber City, and Jim Stites of Spanish Fork, all worked on the planter at various times.

Letters from our congressmen in Washington and from officials and individuals in Salt Lake have requested the preservation of the Town Square — not the using of this property for a park. Viewed rationally it would appear very unlikely that these individuals would be concerned with the addition of one acre of land to our City Park. This is a local problem which we do not feel is the concern of these outside groups.

THE RESTORATION OF the buildings on this square to a point where they would be a credit to the community would require the expenditure of many thousands of dollars and then the problems of future maintenance would have to be met. It is easy to dream and plan a project this this nature if the realities of financing are not faced. No mention of funds have been made indicating that they would have to come from the taxpayers of the County. We do not feel that this expenditure could even be considered.

It will be noted that the new Courthouse and parking area will occupy the same areas as is now used by the Courthouse and Jail. Park area will remain about the same and nearly all of the existing trees will be retained. It would appear that if there is a critical need for additional park space for the type of park needed at this location, the removal of the existing buildings and the construction of a new park would be a more logical solution.

Major field day activities will include a Hereford judging contest, a junior public speaking contest, selection of a Hereford Queen, and educational talks and demonstration by leading Hereford breeders and beef cattle authorities.

The Utah Junior Hereford Association extends a special invitation to all county agents, FFA teachers and their 4-H and FFA members to attend the field day and participate in the judging contest.
